1. Scope

This policy applies to teaching and support staff employed in schools. This procedure is aimed to deal with grievances raised by individual employees.

In this procedure, where the headteacher is the subject of the grievance all reference to headteacher in this document should be replaced with Chair of Governors.

Where a grievance applies to several persons who are members of a recognised trade union, it may be more appropriate to consider the matter under a different process. Such consideration should be given in to invoke the appropriate collective bargaining machinery. Where teaching staff are concerned, it may be more relevant to consider the conciliation procedure as detailed in the Teachers' Conditions of service, The Burgundy book.

2. Definition of Grievance

According to ACAS "Grievances are concerns, problems or complaints that employees raise with their employers" about their work, working conditions, or relationships with work colleagues and may cover the following, although this list is not exhaustive:-

- Terms and conditions of employment
- Health and safety
- Work relations
- New working practices
- Working environment
- Organisational change
- Discrimination
- Bullying and harassment

3. Policy Statement

Staff may occasionally have concerns relating to their employment or professional working relationship. If not addressed, they can disrupt working relationships and escalate unnecessarily. It is important therefore to have mechanisms in place, which facilitate their early resolution and a return to effective working relationships. The following structure has been put in place to achieve this objective.

This procedure has been drawn up in accordance with the principles of the ACAS Code of Practice and the Equal Opportunity Policies following consultation with the appropriate trade unions. The purpose is to foster effective working relationships and workplace practices conducive to the provision of a professional education service. Note there are specific policy and guidance documents for handling grievances about racial harassment, sexual harassment and bullying at work; the Grievance Procedure is designed to complement and enhance response to staff concerns in these areas. Senior Management in schools may, at anytime, seek advice from the Schools Personnel Service if they so wish.

The SDBE does not have any statutory entitlement to advise the governing body in relation to the appointment and dismissal of teachers. However, it is recommended that the Governing body take advice from SDBE. All advice offered by the diocesan authority should be taken into consideration, and decisions made by the governing body, in the light of that advice should be fully documented.

4. Principles

Both 'Informal' and 'Formal' procedures have been established against the following Principles:

- Grievances should be dealt with as soon as possible and as near to the point of origin as possible
- The circumstances surrounding a grievance must be thoroughly investigated to establish the facts of the case
- The formal grievance and the response to it must be put in writing
- Mediation is a possible means of resolving grievances throughout the procedure i.e., intervention by a third party in an attempt to facilitate discussion and then reconciliation of the grievance.
- Witnesses to an incident may be interviewed during any investigation into a grievance and may be required to attend any subsequent formal grievance hearing
- Where it is intended to call a pupil as a witness that shall only be done with the prior approval of the child's parent or nominated carer.
- A formal grievance meeting will only be arranged in response to the submission of a formal grievance in writing.
- At any formal grievance meeting, employees have the right to be accompanied by a trade union representative, friend, or work colleague.
- If an employee is dissatisfied with the outcome of a formal grievance meeting he/she will be able to appeal in writing.
- Grievance meetings should be held during the employee's working time. Where the meeting needs to be held outside of the employee's working time, this should be by mutual agreement.
- On occasions either party may request an extension to the time limits to investigate or to consider options that may resolve the matter. Such extensions should be mutually agreed and not unreasonable refused by either party.
- Where the grievance is against another member of staff at the school, that employee is entitled to know the nature of any allegations made against them and be allowed the opportunity to respond to the allegations.
- False or malicious grievances that have little or no substance may result in disciplinary action being taken against the employee raising the grievance.
- The grievance procedure should not be used by employees to deal with concerns they may have in relation to issues outside the orbit of their employment relationship with the school.

5. Procedure

In order to effectively deal with a grievance it is important that the basis of the grievance is clearly understood, and the desired outcome is stated by the employee at the start of the procedure so that it can be considered during the process.

5.1 Stage 1 - Informal Grievance

Employees should, in the first instance, raise the grievance with their line manager through discussion to attempt to resolve the concern. If the grievance is against the line manager, the employee should approach the next level of management.

When stating his/her grievance, an employee should keep to the facts and avoid language which may be considered insulting or abusive unless asked to give verbatim quotes of what was said.

The manager should seek to resolve the problem, provide an explanation and, if necessary, seek advice or information from other sources, including the school's personnel service provider.

The decision should be given in writing within 5 working days of the date that the grievance was raised.

This informal stage may be sufficient to resolve the grievance satisfactorily.

5.2 Stage 2 - Formal Grievance

Where informal discussions fail to resolve the grievance, or for more serious matters, the employee should put a formal grievance in writing requesting for the grievance to be considered under the formal procedure. This can be in the form of a letter or the Formal Grievance Form at Appendix B can be used. Where an attempt has been made to resolve the grievance informally, a request to consider it under the formal procedure must be made within 10 working days of notification of the outcome of the informal stage.

If an employee raises concerns but does not put them in writing, the school may, in reasonable circumstances, choose to take matters forward through the formal procedure in an effort to resolve and bring the matter to a resolution.

The grievance at this stage should be heard by a senior manager who has not previously been involved with the matter in any way i.e., it should not be the same person who dealt with the grievance at the Informal Stage.

Following the receipt of a formal grievance from an employee, the manager will arrange to meet with the employee within 10 working days of receiving the grievance. The employee will be given 5 working days' notice of the meeting and he/she will have the right to be accompanied by a trade union representative, work colleague or friend.

Preparing for the Formal Grievance meeting

Prior to the meeting the manager should consider:-

- arranging for someone who is not involved in the case to take notes of the meeting and to act as a witness to what was said.

- finding out whether similar grievances have been raised before and they have been resolved, and any follow-up action that may have been necessary. This allows consistency for treatment.
- dependant on the nature of the grievance, whether to offer independent mediation.

During the Formal Grievance meeting

During the meeting the manager should:

- remember that a grievance meeting is not the same as a disciplinary hearing, and is an occasion when discussion and dialogue may lead to an amicable solution.
- Invite the employee to re-state his/her grievance and how he/she would like to see it resolved
- Consider adjourning the meeting if it is necessary to investigate any new facts which may arise
- Sum up the main points of the grievance
- Inform the employee when they might reasonably expect a response if one cannot be made at the time.

The manager will inform the employee in writing of his/her decision and the reasons on which it is based and any action that is to be taken, and the employee's right of appeal within 5 working days of the meeting. A copy of this response must be placed on the employee's personal file and a copy sent to the school's personnel provider.

The manager should ensure that any action taken as a measure to resolve the grievance is monitored and reviewed, as appropriate, to ensure that it deals effectively with the issues.

5.3 Stage 3 - Grievance Appeal Meeting

If the employee is not satisfied with the outcome of the formal grievance meeting, he/she will be entitled to appeal against the decision. The appeal must be in writing and sent to the school within 7 working days from the date notification of the decision from the Stage 2 meeting.

In submitting his/her appeal, the employee should provide a written statement detailing the reasons for the appeal i.e., the reasons why the decision at Stage 2 was considered to be wrong, plus any supporting papers and a copy of the original grievance.

The headteacher/designated manager should arrange a meeting of the Governing Body Appeal Committee as soon as possible from receipt of the written appeal. The Governing Body Appeal Committee will consist of 3 governors who are not staff governors and, ideally, not parent governors and who have not previously been involved in the case. The manager who conducted the Stage 2 Formal Grievance Meeting will be required to prepare a management statement of the case and present the management case at the Grievance Appeal Meeting.

Preparation for the Grievance Appeal meeting

Prior to the meeting the headteacher/designated manager should:-

- Arrange for a copy of the management statement, other supporting evidence and a copy of the letter to the employee to be sent to members of the Governing Body Appeal Committee.
- Inform the employee of the appeal meeting in writing attaching the management statement of the case and any other supporting evidence to be considered. The employee should be given 10 working days' notice of the meeting. The employee will have the right to be accompanied at the meeting by a trade union representative, work colleague or friend.
- The employee must submit any information he/she wishes to be considered at the appeal meeting within 3 working days of the meeting.

During the Grievance Appeal Meeting

At the meeting:

- The employee or his/her companion will present the case
- The panel and the designated manager may ask questions of the employee and his/her companion relating to their statement
- The designated manager will present the case
- The panel and the employee and his/her representative may ask questions of the designated manager relating to his/her statement
- Following the two parties presenting their case, the panel will make a decision which can be to:
 - a. Uphold the appeal setting out how the matter is to be resolved.
 - b. Suggest ways of seeking/facilitating joint resolution
 - c. Not uphold the appeal

The employee and the designated manager will be informed of the decision and the reasons for it in writing within 5 working days.

6. Overlapping grievance and disciplinary cases

Where an employee raises a grievance during a disciplinary process the disciplinary process may be temporarily suspended in order to deal with the grievance. Where the grievance and disciplinary cases are related it may be appropriate to deal with both issues concurrently.

7. Role of the Companion

Employees have a statutory right to be accompanied, regardless of length of service, by a friend, work colleague or a trade union representative at a formal grievance meeting and any subsequent appeal meeting. If the companion is a work colleague, he/she should be afforded reasonable paid time off. This should cover time to attend the hearing and also time to familiarise themselves with the case and confer with the employee before and after the hearing.

A companion has the right to address the hearing in order to:

- Confer with the employee

- Put across the employee's case
- Sum up the employee's case
- Respond on the employee's behalf to any view expressed at the meeting

A companion does not have the right to:

- Answer questions on the employee's behalf
- Address the hearing if the employee does not wish him/her to do so
- Prevent the Investigating Officer from explaining his/her case

Given the importance of the companion's role, it is good practice to allow him/her to ask questions and participate as fully as possible.

8. Keeping Written Records

It is important, and in the interests of both the school and the employee, to keep written records during the grievance process. Records should include:-

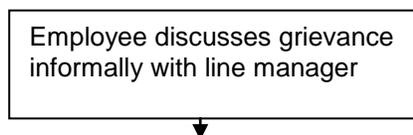

- The nature of the grievance
- What was decided and actions taken
- The reasons for the decision and actions taken
- Whether an appeal was lodged
- The outcome of the appeal
- Any subsequent developments

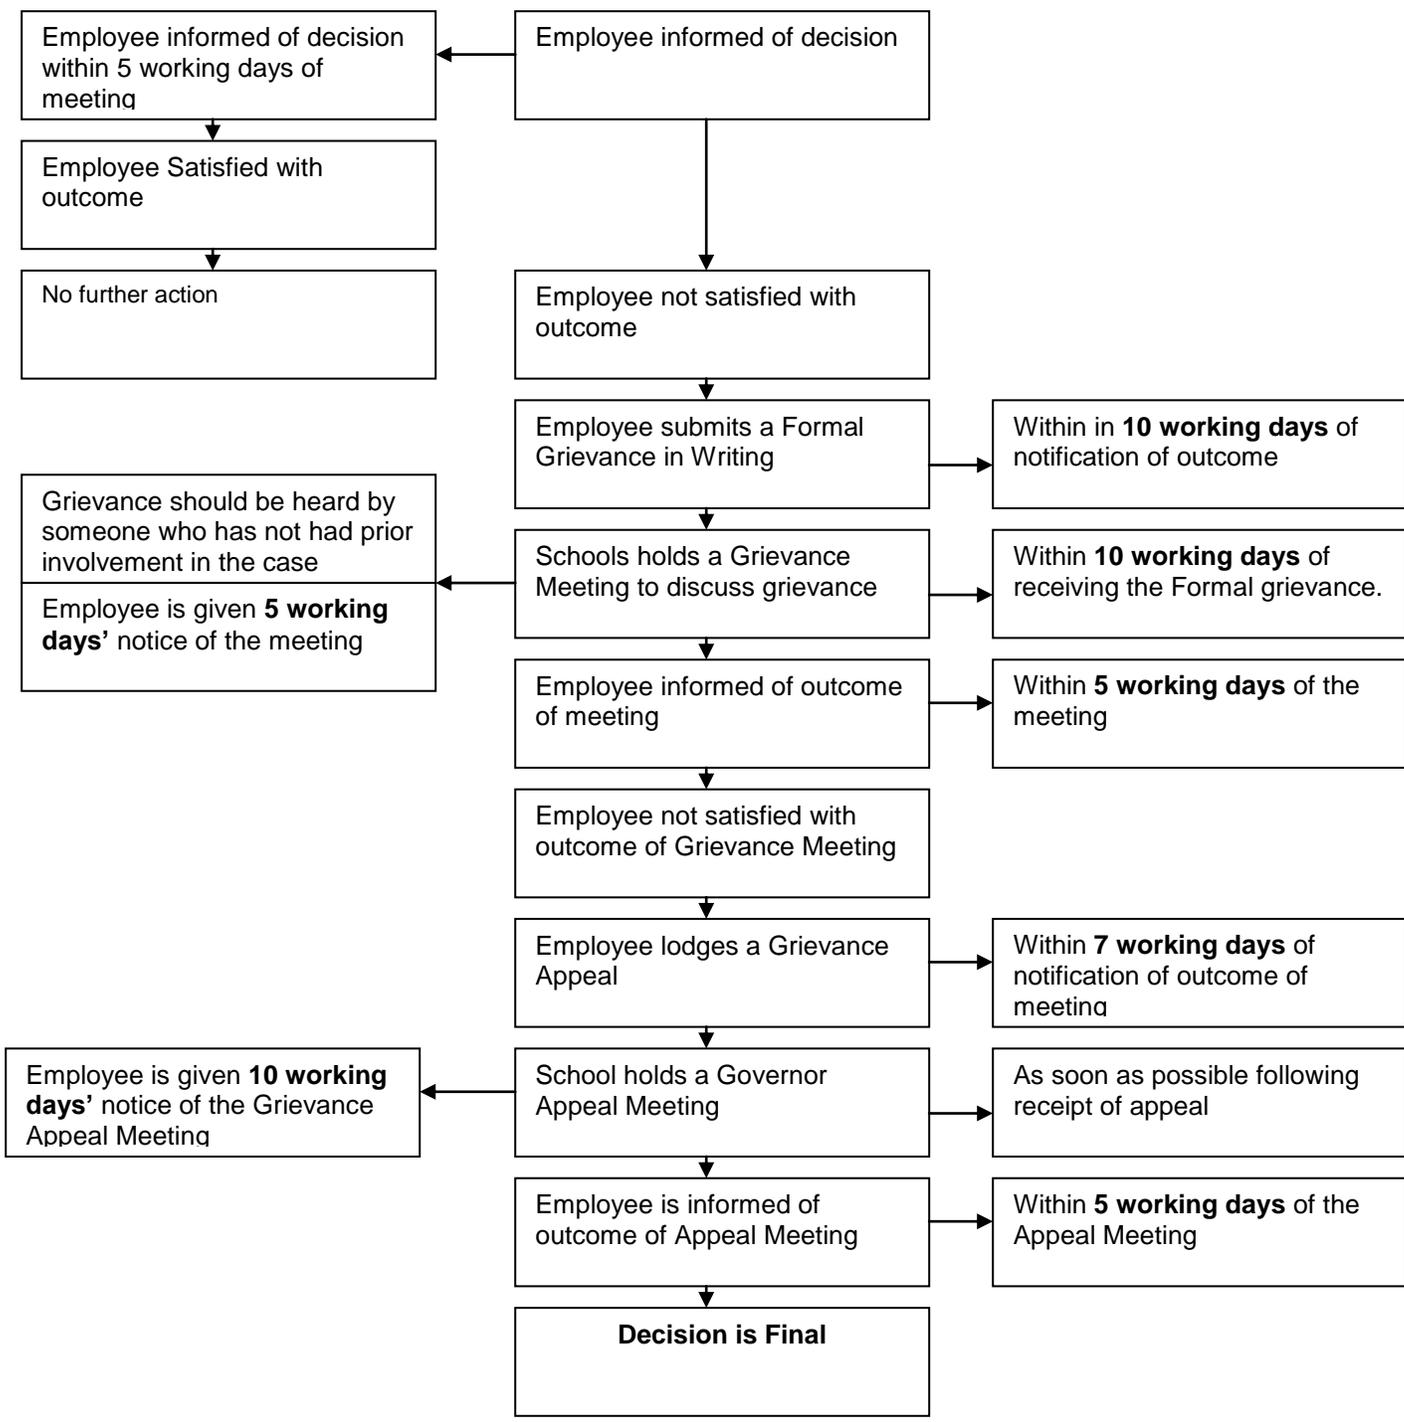

Records should be treated as confidential and be kept no longer than necessary in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998. The notes should be kept for no less than six months and no more than 12 months from the end of the process.

Copies of the meeting records should be given to the employee including copies of any formal minutes that may have been taken. In certain circumstances (for example to protect a witness) the school may wish to withhold some information.
